GLENDALE WELFARE CHEST DRIVE IS NOW ON

Verdugo Hills Council's New Boy Scout Executive Takes up Work

Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Judge Crawford Is Nemesis To Violators Of Eighteenth Amendment

JUDGE CRAWFORD, of Burbank, is running a close second to Judge Cox, of Santa Ana, in handing out stiff fines to law violators.

Most of the heavy fines levied by Judge Crawford, however, are on liquor violations instead of in traffic cases. The most recent instance of judicial severity was three $1000 fines leyied by Judge Crawford on the driver of an automobile truck and two companions, the truck being loaded with liquor. Judge Crawford should be commended by all for treating these liquor cases as he does. There is no violator of the law more despicable than the bootlegger, for he strikes at the very heart of our well being, the constitution of the United States.

* * *

THE SOONER these bootleggers and their patrons come to realize that the eighteenth amendment is just as much a part of our constitution as any other provision the better for the country's welfare. Too many persons look upon and treat it as a joke. When they do this they are assisting in the maintaining of a traffic which is responsible for more law breaking, including murders, than any other agency. Decent people the country over are beginning to wake up and when they are brought to a full realization of the extreme seriousness of this condition they will put a stop to it without much delay.

* * *

GLENDALE'S building permit's total took another jump today. The largest permit was $50,000 for an apartment hotel. With today's figure included, the total for the month of November so far reached the high figure of $791,441 and that for the year $8.$886,288.

Glendale so far this year has had three months in which over one million dollars.. in permits were taken out and November looks very much like another million dollar month.

* * *

IF THE SECOND half of November keeps up as the first half Glendale will move up in standing among California cities as to building activities. Her position on the first of November was eighth but it now looks as if by December 1 she will move up to fifth place.

LEVENSON FINED SUM OF $5000 ON LIQUOR CHARGE

The biggest fine yet assessed in Burbank for violation of the Wright act was given Albert Levenson of San Francisco, yesterday, by Judge Crawford. Levenson was transporting a truck load of liquor, $5000 worth as the market goes, and his truck broke down in Burbank. Suspicious circumstances led to an investigation by Officer George Miller and the man was arrested. Two men in a Nash touring car were found with Levenson. The men, giving the names of Clyde Brown and Frank Cornero, claimed to be garage men from Los Angeles, but were locked up with Levenson, just the same. At the trial they were deemed to be implicated with Levenson and were each given the same fine as the latter, $1000. The men all had made arrangements to pay their fines but when they learned that federal officers were awaiting their release to re-arrest them, in which case the bail of each would have been $25,000, they concluded to save their money and so remained in detention. Burbank has made a name all over the Southland for the vigilance of its officers in detecting violations of the Eighteenth amendment. Perhaps the size of the fine and the value of liquor confiscated may deter others contemplating such violations.

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 20.—A merry romp in a sand pile Friday resulted in the death Sunday of Lenore Myrtle Hedman, 2-year-old daughter of Carl Hedman of this city. Until her death, seven physicians were unable to diagnose her sudden illness, but an autopsy performed yesterday showed that she had inhaled sand into her lungs.

GLENDALE SOLD ON WELFARE CHEST

Speakers at Last Night's Mass Meeting Put Pep Into Workers

Plenty of workers and no shirkers showed up at the High school auditorium Monday night for the last words of instruction preliminary to the drive for financing Glendale's Community Welfare chest which started this morning. It was just the kind of meeting to heatren them for the big job ahead and to complete the vital thing pointed out by the campaign chairman, A. W. Tower, who declared: "It is easy to call upon other people for money, easier than paying it yourself; but it is still easier if you have sold yourself on the proposition." The close of the meeting gave positive assurance that everybody present was "sold" on the Welfare chest when Chairman W. E. Hewitt, who presided seriously put the question, "Are we going to put this thing over?" and every voice responded "We will!"

The meeting opened with community singing of some "chest" songs under the spirited leadership of "France" Henry, and during the evening J. Arthur Myers sang most beautifully Burley's negro spiritual "Didn't It Rain?" and "Coming Home" by Charles Willoughby.

Before introducing the orators of the evening Mr. Hewitt read the list of beneficiaries under Glendale's chest budget of $40,000 expressing the belief that in a city the size of this, 40,000 and other, it should not be difficult to raise $1 per capita; that Pasadena has put over a budget of $315,000 representing a per capita of $3.50. He explained the purpose of the reserve fund to take care of such emergencies as arise when there is a disaster like that of the Japanese tragedy of the Verdugo Hills fire. He also referred to the fact that campaign is being carried on without paid directors, managers or any expense whatsoeevr. The chest will therefore mean a saving in overhead expense and will cut out in a great measure the over-lapping of work of the various organizations benefitted.

Two speakers addressed the gathering—J. C. Sloan of Pasadena, one of the most active workers in the chest there, and Henry M. Henderson, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Los Angeles, who had practical experience with the community chest in Cleveland, O., where it has been an outstanding success for many years.

Mr. Sloan quoted the remark of a certain Yale professor who said: "The human mind has an infinite capacity for resisting the entrance of knowledge." This was a preliminary warning of what workers might expect when canvassing for pledges and cash contributions. On the hopeful side he said, referring to the few new things "under the sun:" There is one thing that is pretty nearly new. It is the increasing understanding on the part of the thinking people of that community that no part of that com-

SAN RAFAEL HILLS D. A. R. IN FINE MEETING

The Daughters of the American Revolution met yesterday with Mrs. Shedd who is the Regent of the San Rafael Hills chapter, at her home—Colorado and Eddy. There were about twenty-five present. The chapter took in two new members. Mrs. Whiting of Glendale, with Mrs. Phelps at the piano, sang very delightfully a group of songs.

The meeting was mainly a business one. Considerable discussion of the schools that are supported by the Daughters of the American Revolution was taken up. A paper was read on the proper use of the flag. As it was the third anniversary of the organization of this chapter, the refreshments were in the form of a birthday cake which had three candles on the top of it. Orange punch was served with the cake. The new members are Mrs. Quarterman of Eagle Rock and Mrs. Lacey of Hollywood. There are now 26 active members.

HEAVY RAINS DO GREAT DAMAGE AROUND MANILA

[By Associated Press]

MANILA, Nov. 20.—The heavy rains of the last few days have done enormous damage to crops in many parts of the Philippines. Rice and sugar cane losses were especially heavy. Cane milling was badly damaged. Thousands of acres of rice was flooded and in some cases washed entirely out.

Several wagon road bridges were washed out. Telegraph wires were blown down. Many miles of streets in Manila have been under water which in some places was three feet deep, stopping street cars. Shipping was badly delayed but there were no wrecks. During the 72 hours of the storm period ending Saturday night 20 inches of rain fell.

C. OF C. DIRECTORS LUNCH AT NEW TAVERN

Talk About Prevention of Fires, Welfare Chest and Other Things

Chamber of Commerce directors held their weekly luncheon today at 1120 South San Fernando road in the Glendale Tavern.

The possibility of an air-mail terminus being established in this vicinity was suggested.

The Glendale Realty board has agreed to raise about $500 toward the expense of the float according to an announcement by W. L. Twining, chairman of the advertising committee. He expressed his "determination" that other organizations would bear their quota of the expense.

A report upon a recent meeting in Hollywood was made by L. T. Rowley, chairman of the fire prevention committee. He called attention to the necessity of preventing forest fires and reminded those present that very few such fires occur in Europe. He expressed his opinion that it would be cheaper to provide more patrols, if necessary, rather than pay the cost after a conflagration. He stated that proper legislation is now being formulated.

An appeal for support for the Welfare chest was made by W. E. Hewitt, president of the Welfare chest council.

An invitation to all present to visit the schools and observe the ramifications of the modern education system was made by George U. Moyse, principal of Glendale Union High school. He made a short talk in behalf of Amedican education week.

Entertainment at the commencement of the luncheon was furnished by Immanuel male quartet and Saxaphone club, which is appearing tonight at the Presbyterian church. This was well applauded.

The quality of the menu, which included roast pigeons, was so satisfactory that directors decided to have next week's luncheon also at the Glendale Tavern.

M'ADOO AND FORD FORCES NEITHER WIN OUT IN S. D.

[By Associated Press]

PIERRE, S. D., Nov. 20.—A protracted fight in the Hughes county democratic proposal convention today between the McAdoo and Ford forces resulted in the election of a delegation uninstructed as to presidential candidates, but formally charged with the duty of using "all honorable methods to secure fusion of democratic and farmer-labor organizations to oppose machine rule in South Dakota."

Big Preparations for C. of C. Banquet

Chamber of commerce members are being invited to attend the banquet Tuesday night in the Tuesday Afternoon club house in honor of directors of the San Fernando Valley chamber of commerce. According to Secretary E. F. Sanders, reservations, which are a dollar a plate, must be made before Monday noon.

The entertainment program will include solos by Miss Marie Oliver of 1314 North Central avenue, J. Arthur Myers of 310 West Lexington and D. Ripley Jackson of 1300 South Brand boulevard. The toastmaster will probably be eJsse E. Smith, president of the Glendale chamber of commerce.

BURBANK ROTARY CLUB HEARS SAN LUIS OBISPO MAN

He Makes Strong Appeal For "That Boy of Mine"

The weekly noon-day meeting of the Burbank Rotary club was held today at the clubhouse of the Sunset Canyon Country club.

The club president, J. C. Crawford, presided. Dr. Phil Zeiss, the regular club song leader led the singing and he also gave two solo selections. Two of the songs which were sung were composed by members. Under the call for the reading of communications a letter was read from the Tokio Rotary club, thanking the Burbank club for a contribution to the Japanese quake fund which had been wired the Tokio club the day after the disaster occurred. The letter also expressed appreciation to the American Red Cross and to the American people as a nation for the whole-hearted manner in which they gave their support.

Attention was also called to a letter which had been received from the Ithaca Rotary club requesting the names of all members' sons who are attending Cornell University, so that they could entertain them.

Andy Fillbach and Burt Cross were called on for speeches on what Rotary meant to them and each one gave a very inspiring talk.

Mr. Niko Riccarddi of the San Luis Obispo Rotary club was the speaker of the day, his topic being "That Boy of Mine." His address was an appeal for the establishment of a vocational guidance department in the public school system, with a vocational counselor stationed at each school. The speech made quite an impression on the members and resulted in an immediate conference being called by Phil Zeiss, who is chairman of the boys' work committee to go over the local situation with the speaker. Among the visiting Rotarians were Clarence Redmond and Tom Watson of the Glendale Rotary club.

OXY-POMONA GAME BIGGEST OF THE YEAR

The Occidental college students, graduates and friends expect to go to Pomona Saturday and see Occidental college whip the Pomona college Sagehens. This will be the biggest and best football game between two southland colleges this year, and the conference title race tomorrow will be narrowed down to two teams at the finish of this game. For the past 20 years the Eagle Rock institution and Pomona college have been the biggest college rivals in this end of the state. They were founded about the same time and are about evenly matched on the football field.

Pomona will close up the entire city Saturday afternoon so all can go to the game. A big bonfire rally will probably be held here this week, so Eagle Rock residents need not be alarmed if they see huge flames shooting high in the sky for Occidental college means to tell he world that if Pomona is to be beaten, Oxy will do it. Last year something like 15 truckloads of ties were piled up and several thousand people came miles to see and listen to the pajama-clad men march around the campus with big flares, sky rockets and a band giving forth lots of noise.

Reservations for this most important and last game of the year can be made by sending to Pomona college.

C. OF C. SECRETARIES GO TO SANTA MONICA

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce will be represented Saturday at the Hotel Mira Mar, Santa Monica, by E. F. Sanders and G. Clay Goodloe, secretary and membership secretary, at the monthly meeting of the Southern Secretaries association. About 75 Chamber of Commerce executives are expected to be in attendance.

GIRLS' CONVENTION AT SAN DIEGO ON NOV. 16

Convention Annual Event, All So. California Schools Attend

November 16 and 17 the Girl's league convention of Glendale Union high school was held San Diego high school. All the were represented. Gwen Warner, president, Mary Barbara Taylor, vice-president, and Miss Ahl represented Glendale.

Long Beach high school was the originator of a Federated Girls' League. The first conven ion was held in 1915 at Long Beach. For the past six years it has been held at the following schools: Manual Arts, Pasadena, Los Angeles, Redlands, Hollywood, Alhambra and last year it was again held at Long Beach high.

Last year Helen Sherwood and Catherine Guthrie were representatives for Glendale and Helen had the honor of being elected secretary of the Federation. Since Helen's graduation Gwen Warner was elected to fulfill the position. At the convention, Glendale's topic which was given before the Federation was: "How To Bring All Girls Into Touch With the League Work."

Gwen Warner and Mary Barbara Taylor were the guests of the president of the Girls League of San Diago and Bob Frazer, a former student of Glendale, was the host to Miss Ahl.

Miss Ahl and the girls left Glendale early Friday morning by train for San Diego. They were met by prominent workers of the League and were taken directly to the high school where they registered. Directly after lunch a business meeting was held. Reports were heard from all the representatives concerning their respective leagues. Many new and novel ideals were obtained from these reports. Gwen reports that the Girls' League of Glendale high compares favorably with the others and even outshines two or three. All the League's are planning philanthopic work for the holidays and were very interested in the two parties which Glendale is to give the Boyd street school children. After the discussion on the various leagues the meeting was adjourned and a social time was enjoyed.

Saturday morning a meeting was held for the purpose of electing officers. After this was completed the girls enjoyed a lovely cruise around San Diego Bay. The girls were treated royally and saw all the interesting places in and near San Diego.

It is hoped that next year the convention can be held in Glendale as it is a great honor. Gwen wants to thank all the girls for their co-operation with her for she said she was proud to report the work and progress which Glendale's Girls' League has made.

EAGLE ROCK'S CONGREGATIONAL FOLK TO BUILD

Last night the Congregational church folk met and made arrangements for the "every member canvass," which is soon to take place. All the Congregational churches hold this sort of meeting the first Sunday in December. The purpose is to secure the cooperation of all members in financing the church the ensuing year.

However, it is not a financial matter so much as it is a fraternal brotherhood affair.

The plans and specifications for the new church building which is to be erected soon, have been prepared for bids. Just as soon as the building committee decides on which one to accept the work will be started. The church will cost $50,000 and will have acousticons placed within so that all may hear easily. Another feature will be a splendid pipe organ. The house will be built on the same site where the church is now located, at the corner of Lincoln and Colorado.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—A complete church service broadcast from New York, Sunday morning, was heard by an amateur radio fan at Hull, according to the Daily Express. The receiver said that even the sound of the people leaving the church was audible.

MUST REGISTER BEFORE DEC. 8 TO VOTE ON SEWERS

Very Important That Every Citizen Use Franchise

Citizens who have moved since the last election must register again before December 8, if they expect to assist Glendale to secure a sewer system.

This necessity was emphasized this morning by City Clerk A. J. Van Wie, who expressed his opinion that a number of citizens neglecting this formality will be unable to vote.

"There will be an effort made on the part of the chamber of commerce to have more deputies appointed," asserted Secretary E. F. Sanders this morning. "It will be almost necessary to make a house-to-house canvas.

Deputy registrars now on the job are as follows: Mrs. Harriet J. Thompson, from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. at 333 North Brand boulevard in the office of the Glendale Daily Press; Mrs. Opal Greenwalt, from 1 to 5 p. m. in the council chamber at the city hall and from 5 to 8 p. m. at 149 South Brand boulevard in the office of the Glendale Evening News; Mrs. M. E. Dell, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. at 100 South Brand boulevard in the local branch of the Security Trust and Savings bank; Mrs. H. Ryan, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. at 104 North Brand boulevard in the Brand Boulevard branch of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank; Mrs. Grace E. Holman, Saturday at Glendale Union high school; Mrs. W. B. Buckman at her home, 1143 Winchester avenue.

FRESHMAN CLASS CHOOSES NEW OFFICERS

At a meeting of the Freshman class of Glendale Union high school which was held last week the officers for the year were elected. Marjorie Nielson was elected president; Jeannette Yarbrough, vice-president; and Louise Emerick secretary-treasurer;

With these splendid officers the class should have a very successful year. The officers are all well known in high school life and Marjorie Nielson, president, is also class representative on the cabinet. The freshmen have decided to have a girls' yell leader and a boys' yell leader, for they expect to make their class the peppiest one in the school. Lois Strother was elected yell leader for the girls and Howard Ruthberg was chosen for boys yell leader.

The freshman class has also decided on the class dues which are to be twenty-five cents. A large amount was not thought necessary for the dues as they will not enter any activities which require money. At the meeting the freshman decided to adopt the school ring. This shows that they certainly are not lacking in school spirit.

Mr. Miller, the class teacher, with the help of the newly elected officers, is busy organizing the class. The class itself is the largest freshman class which Glendale has ever had. They have determined to enter school activities from the very beginning of their school life and are determined to show the upperclassmen and their rivals, the sophomores, that the freshman class is certainly not to be laughed at. Watch out for the freshman!

NEW EXECUTIVE VERDUGO HILLS BOY SCOUTS

Frank Cheesman Here To Take Over Duties of Position

The Glendale Boy Scout executive board, under the able leadership of Messrs. A. R. Eastman, president, and Roy L. Kent, treasurer, has been carrying on the Boy Scout activities for the past month until the new Scout executive, Mr. H. R. Cheesman could take up the duties of Scout executives for the Verdugo Hills district, with headquarters in Glendale.

Mr. Cheesman arrived yesterday and opened the Boy Scout headquarters at 103½ South Brand boulevard for service to the Scoutmasters and boys of this community.

Last evening an interesting meeting of the adult troop leaders was held at the Glendale First Congregational church to welcome Mr. Cheesman to his new field.

The new Scout executive, who was for five years assistant Scout executive of Los Angeles city and for the last two and a half years, the Scout executive of Ventura county, promised many interesting future developments for the boys of this district in his address to the Scoutmasters.

Mr. Cheesman just returned Sunday from the training school for Scout executives now being conducted at Oakland, Calif., by the National Boy Scout organization, where he was one of the faculty, delivering a number of lectures on out door phases of Scout work. Other members of the faculty were Raymond O. Hanson, Scout executive of San Francisco; Oscar Kirkham, Scout executive of Salt Lake City; Walter L. Bachodt, superintendent of schools of Oakland; Lorne W. Barclay, national director of the department of education; Dr. Charles F. Smith of Teachers' College, Columbia University; Dr. W. W. Kemp, dean of the school of education, University of California, and Professor Frank Bacon of the department of education, University of California. Seventy-six new Scout executives and prospective Scout executives are now in attendance at this school at the wonderful Boy Scout camp.

Some of the most interesting points brought out by different lectures at the course were as follows: Mr. Chas. C. Moore, president of the San Francisco Boy

Altogether there will be 24 apartments. Eight of them will be "doubles," and will consist of living room, bed room, bath and kitchenette. The other 16 will be "singles," and will consist of a combination living room and bedroom with bath, kitchenette and dressing room adjoining.

The lobby of establishment will occupy a space about 22x20 feet in size, just inside the entrance.

Specifications call for stucco over frame with a composition roof.

An incinerator is being placed in the basement. This will be large enough to burn both rubbish and garbage.

NEW HIGH AUDITORIUM IS IMMENSE AFFAIR

The magnitude of the auditorium in the new Glendale high school plant is now evident since the scaffolding has been removed, according to Principal George U. Moyse. He is hopeful that the auditorium will be ready before December 13 and 14, for the Variety show.

SECOND DAY OF INSTITUTE IS FULL OF INTEREST

Henry Henderson and H. B. Wilson Make Fine Addresses

The music which embroidered the program of the Glendale District Teachers' Institute at the afternoon session was provided by pupils of Glendale high. The school orchestra under the leadership of Mrs. Dora Gibson played a Spanish dance by Moszkowski, and "Azardas" by Deliebes. Amy Bainbridge contributed a piano number "Shepherds and Shepherdesses" (Godard), and the Boys' Glee club sang "When Billows are Rocking" (Geibel) and "A Health to All Good Fellows" (Chaffee) directed by Mrs. Florence Parker.

Some very good and rather radical things were said by the speaker of the afternoon, H. B. Wilson, superintendent of the Berkeley public schools who is able to bring humor and philosophy to bear upon the problems of our system of popular education at the same time exhibiting zealous desire for its success in the best, most far-reaching directions. He pointed out that the increase of the curriculums of the public schools had been made by the people themselves through their legislators and not by teachers, though the teachers are naturally anxious to have the course made elastic enough to meet the needs of all types of students. The same power had made the compulsory education law as broad as it is today in California. He pointed out that in the district school of his boyhood where reading, writing, arithmetic, geography and spelling were taught, there was great waste because of limited opportunity. There was no appeal to the muscular type and as a result there was a crowd of big mean boys and smart alecky girls who were the big problem and trial of the teacher. "Now," said he, "we are able to take care of a crowd of that sort up to the age of 18. If we are to adequately educate all the children our course must be varied enough to appeal to every type of child.

"If there is anything the matter with the curriculum it is that we have too many dead, obsolete, functionless, worn out, antediluvian subjects. Not all of the things we still teach are socially valuable or functionally useful. What needs to happen is just what has happened during the last four years to the subject of spelling. We have reduced the word list to 4000 words which the rank and file of people need to know how to spell with accuracy, in their everyday affairs."

Mr. Henderson then referred to superfluities in the teaching of arithmetic for practical uses mentioning the greatest common divisor, arithmatical progression and cube root. He also referred to the elimination of much of the theory of grammar and the time wasted by past generations in parsing, conjugation of verbs, classification of nouns into abstract and concrete, limiting descriptive and purely descriptive adjectives, and the adverbs of time, place, manner, degree and condition. "That," said he, "is our task from the standpoint of the curriculum. Those subjects we are teaching we ought to teach but we ought to take time off and do all of them what has been done to spelling and arithmetic." (Applause).

JOLLY BACHELORS GIVE DELIGHTFUL DANCES

Dances being given by the Jolly Bachelors at the I. O. O. F. hall at Orange and Broadway are proving to be very delightful affairs. Prizes will be awarded for the most original characters and best costumes. Only a limited number of tickets will be available. Music for these dances is furnished by Kelly's Shrine orchestra.

BIG DAY AT GLENDALE AVENUE INTERMEDIATE

This has been a big day at the Glendale Avenue intermediate school where "The Constitution of the United States and Patriots' Day" was observed by the presentation of an elaborate, beautiful and very interesting historical pageant by members of the history classes under the direction of the vice principal, Miss Gladys Sharpe, and teachers associated with her. Full particulars of this charming spectacle, in which the children acquitted themselves with such credit and so well entertained their fellow students and parents who witnessed it, will be given in tomorrow's paper.

AL HERMAN WILL BE HEADLINER FOR EXCHANGEITES

Al Herman, one of the foremost blackface comedians, will be the entertainer tomorrow noon in the main dining room of the Egyptian Village cafe at a join luncheon of the Exchange club and campaign workers for the Welfare chest. He is a relative of some of our Glendale folk. One theater in Los Angeles "played up" Mr. Herman as a "headliner" last week, and this week he is playing at another, where he is booked as "The Black Laugh, the assassin of grief and remorse."

Because of the fact that Mr. Herman's stage appearances have been confined largely to the east, he is not as well-known in the west as Al Jolson, but he is regarded by many as without a peer. About three years ago he appeared in Los Angeles in "The Greenwich Village Follies."

The allegation that the British have no sense of humor was refuted recently by Mr. Herman. He played twelve weeks in London and succeeded in thawing the "bally Hinglish fog."

Capt. D. Ripley Jackson, 1800 South Brand boulevard, president of the Exchange club, will preside at the luncheon. At 1 o'clock he will turn the gavel over to A. W. Tower of 214 East Park avenue, campaign director for the Welfare chest.

The menu for the luncheon will consist of tenderloin steak and French fried potatoes, green peas, hot biscuits, ice cream and cake, and coffee.

REV. COLE TALKS ABOUT RISE OF DENOMINATIONS

At Central Christian church Sunday morning, Rev. Cole preached a sermon on "Immortal Money," advancing the plea that our money lives after us, either for good or evil and that the world is concerned over how we dispose of our means.

In the evening the pastor traced the rise of the leading religious denominations, beginning with Luther's revolt in 1517, when his followers took his name and so increased that now the Lutheran denomination numbers more members than any other. Then came the Church of England in 1552; the Puritans in 1580, progenitors of the Congregational church of today; the Calvinists in 1644, now the great Presbyterian churches; the Baptists in 1772 and the Methodists under the saintly John and Charles Wesley, in 1784. All these denominations, under consecrated leaders were and are reaching upward to an undivided church. Last of all comes the restoration movement, or disciples of Christ, whose object was to do away with denominationalism entirely and unite all followers of Christ under one fold.

EAGLE ROCK NOTES

The water department has been extremely busy the last few weeks putting the fire hydrants in. The work is progressing fast and there will be four put in on Central avenue immediately. More will probably be installed later on this street, and it will give a more adequate protection against fire. Thirty-eight have been put in to date and a total of 75 are to be finally placed.

The double bungalow at 5115 Rowland is being hurried along dapidly and Mrs. Agnes Stark, the owner, expects to have the building finished early in January.

The big apartment house which is being erected at 5119 Central avenue is expected to be completed about the first of January. This is another example of the building activities which are again taking rapid strides.

The Eagle Rock branch of the Los Angeles public library has lately installed a shelf of "pay fiction" books. These books may be used for one week for five cents each. The money obtained in this way is used to buy other beoks and thus it keeps a new line of books continually coming in.

All of the cans and garbage will be collected by the end of this week by the regular collector.

The Glendale Fire Victims' Aid fund received an enlargement Monday morning by obtaining a sum of $44.25 which was given through three channels. The sum of $24.25 came through St. Barnabas church. Fifteen dollars was given by the Women's club and the remainder was a cash donation of $5.

The regular music practice session of the Presbyterian church was held last night from 7:30 to 8:30.

The Methodist church expects to put up a new building within a short time and it will cost in the neighborhood of $75,000. More details are to be given later.

The Women's Twentieth Century club will hold its regular meeting Thursday afternoon. The program as scheduled will take place at the club house. There will be bird imitations by the bird child, Peggy Warren, accompanied by Mrs. Warren; "On the Threshold of Opportunity," by Mrs. J. B. Lorbeer, vice president, Los Angeles district, California Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Alpha sorority of Oxy will have its circus tonight at the Women's club house. "Porky Jacobson," the star member of the glee club, will be ringmaster. If you want to see a real college affair, be sure to come at 7:30 tonight. This is for everyone and the proceeds will go to the girls' dormitory building fund.

Building permits for the past few days are as follows: Walter L. Nourse, private garge, 5237 Townsend, valuation, $300; Mr. Watkins, dwelling, 5415 Ellis, $4000; Mr. Watkins, garage, 5415 Ellis, valuation, $200; Mrs. A. L. Saylor, garage, 5334 Hartwick, valuation, $350; Emma Lenthold, building, 4659-61 Valley drive, $4100.

Mrs. J. C. Shedd will attend the council meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution, which meets once a month in Los Angeles. The council is composed of the regents and vice regents of the southern part of the state and is conducted by State Regent Mrs. Stookey.

The Alpha sorority of Occidental College will hold a circus-bazaar at the Woman's club at Eagle Rock Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. There will be the usual circus features including the wild man, etc., and the proverbial pink lemonade, candy, peanuts and popcorn. There will also be a Christmas booth, where many attractive novelties can be purchased.

NOMINATION OF OFFICERS FOR THE AUXILIARY MADE

First nomination of officers for the auxiliary to Glendale post No. 127, American Legion, took place at the regular meeting held Monday afternoon and will be continued at the meeting on December 3. Election of officers will take place at the second meeting in December. Mrs. Margaret Kaeding, president, gave her report of the national convention held recently at San Francisco.

The local auxiliary voted to allow $15 to the county council for Christmas work. A doll house has been donated to the county council from the grand-children of Mrs. Hyers of Glendale. Mrs. Kaeding states that the disabled veterans are making this into a thing of beauty. Opportunity tickets on this doll house may be purchased from her. The proceeds will be used for welfare work. It has been decided that each disabled veteran in every hospital of Los Angeles county will be given a basket of fruit and a $1 bill at Christmas time.

Considerable time at the meeting on Monday was given over to discussion of the Glendale Welfare Chest drive which begins today. The auxiliary has been allotted $400 of the chest proceeds to carry on its work next year.

On account of ill health Mrs. Kaeding was obliged to decline the office of hospitalization committee chairman for the ninth district, to which she had been appointed by the state department.

HOLLANDS HAVE EVENTFUL TRIP TO TUCSON, ARIZ.

Raging Torrent in Dry Wash Threatens; Mud Hinders

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Holland give an interesting account of their trip to Tucson to visit their son who is attending the University. Their neice, Miss Bradley, and nephew, Ensign J. H. Dorsey, of U. S. S. 31, accompanied them.

They left on Wednesday, expecting to arrive at their destination on Saturday. They spent the night at Mecca. The next morning they were delayed on their way by a raging torrent driving down a "dry wash." They could get no further that day and that night the party slept in their car, entirely unprepared for camping, with only one lap robe between them, on the very edge of the stream.

As they were nearing Blythe, they heard a roar and a cloudburst deluged them, coming out of an apparently clear sky. Four and a half miles the other side of the Colorado river, the roads were impassable, owing to the thick mud, and there was no further traveling. Four boys scouted until 2 a. m., giving what help they could to the disabled cars, towing those that they could out of the mud. There were no signs of any sort or description, whereby they could tell in which direction they were going; but they knew they were just a few miles from Glendale, Arizona, for they could see the lights of the city. After several hours of waiting, they had to be patient, for they were stuck, they were finally towed onto dry land, and proceeded on their way, reaching Wickenburg, where they stopped for a good rest. From Wickenburg on to Tucson the roads were in very goon condition. They arrived Sunday at 4 p. m. Mr. and Mrs. Holland enjoyed their visit with their son, finding him well and happy.

The party returned by way of Salome and Indio. They found the Ehrensburg ferry broken down, and a line of three hundred cars waiting to be carried across by the old ferry, which is operated by cables. The Holland car was the ninety-third car in line. They arrived at the ferry at one in the afternoon, and did not leave until eleven o'clock that night. There happened which supplied the occupants of to be a ltitle store near the ferry, the waiting cars with bread, crackers, and canned fruit. The Holland party stood in line for three hours, finally procuring a loaf of bread and a can of peaches. At last it came their turn to cross the ferry, and from then on home the rest of the journey proved uneventful. They arrived home just in time for Lieut. Dorsey to report for duty.

Mrs. Holland says that in spite of the hardships undergone, the trip was full of interest, and they feel no regrets for any of the rough experience through which they passed, only it seems good to be at home again.

DEPUTY EXALTED RULER VISITS ELKS' LODGE

Plans Made for Float to Be Entered at Rose Tournament

Official visit of District Deputy Exalted Ruler Frank R. Cryderman of San Pedro and his staff of officers was paid to the Glendale lodge of Elks, No. 1289, held Monday night with Exalted Ruler James Apffel presiding. Preceding the regular lodge meeting, Mr. Cryderman and his officers were entertained at dinner at the Glendale Country club by officers of the Glendale lodge. There were a number of visitors from Huntington Park and Alhambra present last night to meet the district deputy.

A class of five candidates was initiated, including Dr. Harry V. Brown, John W. Dunn, Harold F. Foell, J. Roy Size and Joseph C. Wolf. Over 300 members and visitors were present.

An important feature of the meeting was the announcement that Glendale lodge has determined to enter a float in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's day. According to W. M. Kimball, secretary of the club, for the first time in the history of the Tournament of Roses there will be a division for floats entered by fraternal orders, and they are putting in an Elks' division. The Glendale Elks' float will be designed by L. W Chobe and worked out with him at the same time as the Glendale city float. It will not in any way conflict with the regular Glendale entry and will be an additional advertisement for this city.

A big dinner party and dance is being planned by the members of No. 1289 for New Year's eve. Reservations will be $5 per plate and will be restricted to 150 couples, or 300 persons. Dinner will be served at 8 o'clock by the Elite caterers of Los Angeles. The Elks' Jazz orchestra of sixteen pieces, under the direction of Wm. Bode, will furnish music for dancing, which will begin after dinner and continue until about 3 o'clock New Year's morn. It is the plan of Exalted Ruler Apffel to have a breakfast of coffee, ham and eggs served at 3 a. m. Detailed arrangements will be announced later.

Work was started this morning on the renovation of the clubhouse, which it is expected will be completed in time for the Elks' memorial day services on Sunday, December 2. The walls are being redecorated and the lobby, reading room and office will be carpeted. The billiard and card rooms will be covered with linoleum. Speakers for memorial Sunday have not been announced as yet. The Orpheus Four, male quartet of Los Angeles will furnish musical numbers.

BROADWAY M .E. CHURCH, SOUTH, NOTES, COMMENTS

At the Broadway M. E. South Sunday school last Sunday morning, which had the largest attendance in its history, all departments were assembled together and definite plans were announced for the Christmas entertainment, which will include a tree. Competent committees were appointed to care for the details. The "shop early" spirit seems to have been adopted by this live school. All preparations will have been worked out, and everything will be in readiness long before Christmas comes. The happy little tots are looking forward eagerly to the night they will meet Santa Claus face to face and receive from his reindeer caravan gifts specially prepared for them. New scholars are added to every department.

The young people composing the membership of the Epworth League have put on quite a spirited "membership contest." Miss Doris Barnette and Irvin Grose are captains of the opposing teams, and from the enthusiasm already in evidence the membership is expected to be doubled by the close of the contest—January 1. The winners will enjoy an elaborate banquet at the expense of the losers.

Ladies of the church have in store for their members and friends an evening of genuine pleasure on Thursday night of this week, at which time they will serve at the church their first dinner. A splendid program has been arranged and the eats—well, they will be served in bounteous quantities, and prepared as only "Southern" ladies can prepare. 'Nuf sed.

Congregations are showing a steady increase at each service. Visitors from near-by cities are present every Sunday morning, and new members are being enrolled. Last Sunday the pastor, Rev. L. J. Millikan, preached at both the morning and evening hours of worship. At the morning service his theme was "Walking With God," and at night "The Peril of Neglect."

Ever hear of John Brown? Attend the chicken dinner on Thursday night of this week given by the ladies of the Broadway Methodist church, and you will find out what has become of his body.

BROADWAY DADS' AUXILIARY WANT YOU ALL TO COME

Listen, Dad!

Do you know that Thursday night, November 22, all the fathers and mothers are going to visit Broadway school to inspect the work of the different classes there?

Yes, sir, and Superintendent White of Glendale's school will be there to give us a little talk pertinent to the occasion. You know next week is Education Week in all the schools from coast to coast.

At the same time Broadway's Fathers' Auxiliary will be on hand to talk over further plans for making Broadway school the very best school in California.

You'll hear all about the last meeting—about the new equipment the fathers are going to get for the children, the plans for more shrubbery for the school grounds, new and more lights for Broadway's stage, 'n everything.

And say, Dad, on December 6, all the fathers are going to have a genuine, old-fashioned "smoker" out in the Sparr Heights community building auditorium. Mother will have to stay at home with the kiddies that night. All the fathers are going to have a game of cribbage, pinocle, five hundred or anything else they want to play. Get your ticket next Thursday night and bring Mr. Brown and Mr. Smith with you. You know, the man who lives next door and the man who lives across the street. They will both come if you ask them.

SHAKESPEAREANS WOULD FORM CLUB IN SECTION

With the view of attaining the goal that has been self established, the members of the Shakespeare section of the Tuesday Afternoon club are taking particular interest in the work being done this season. For, preliminary plans are being made by this group of women for the organization of a Shakespearean club, composed of members of the Tuesday Afternoon club who have studied a specified number of Shakespeare's plays under an instructor, according to Mrs. M. F. Garrett, teacher of the section.

Mrs. H. W. Ralston, dramatic instructor of the section, had charge of rehearsal of "Twelfth Night," which is to be produced January 18. This was followed by a short business session with Mrs. Walter Jones, curator, presiding. She announced that over and above the $40 expenses, the section had cleared $51.50 at the dance given in connection with the Society Circus on Saturday night. Mrs. Carr and Mrs. Clough were announced as the hostesses for the next regular meeting of the section on December 3. Mrs. Ralston requested that members be at the club promptly at 12 o'clock on that day to rehearse.

Roll call for members present was answered with quotations from Shakespeare's works. Mrs. Garrett requested the members to attend the section meetings during the month of December and bring their holiday work with them. She gave a short but interesting informal talk on the "Psychology of Memory." Act 1 of Twelfth Night was read by the various members during the study lesson. For the next meeting Acts 2 and 3 will be taken up.

Mrs. F. S. Card and Mrs. B. O. Holbrook were the hostesses for the afternoon and served delicious refreshments of pumpkin pie, nut bread sandwiches and tea at the close of the lesson.

Truths in Epigram

Many men do not allow their principles to take root, but pull them up every now and then, as children do the flowers they have planted, to see if they are growing.—Longfellow.

But it is with man's soul as it was with nature: The beginning of creation is—light.—Carlyle.

PUBLICITY AND BOOTLEGGING

There are persons who fairly bask in publicity. What sort of figure they may cut in the limelight they do not care, if only in full flood of radiance the light shall hit them. The emotion of the citizen who finds his name among the officially listed patrons of a bottlegger, are believed to be different.

The bootlegger himself, of course, is far from courting any envisonment but secrecy. Publicity is ruin to him. This is not that he is ashamed of his activities, but that he is afraid of the law. The highly respectable patron of the bootlegger also is averse to having his identity made known. The possibility is that he is ashamed. If not ashamed on moral grounds, or because he has been detected in defying the constitution, he is unable to be proud of the financial acumen that had led him into paying whisky prices, multiplied by ten, for stuff not whisky at all.

When a bootlegger is captured and a long list of names found among his effects, the conclusion that each of these names represents a patron would be hasty. He may have written down those regarded by him as "prospects." Every agent, from realty to books and insurance, does this.

Publicity may be good for a movie star, but it is death to the bootlegger, on the principle that what is one man's meat is another man's poison.

CONCERNING PERMANENCY

"In order to maintain values of real estate," says a circular of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, "houses and lots must be occupied by people who are permanently employed, and the great rush of population that is coming to southern California, and to Los Angeles particularly, must be sustained by profitable employment."

The circular proceeds to point out how neglect to foster proper conditions might lead to a period of depression, but that through the methods that would apply in private business affairs, such depression might be prevented. Therefore the organization in question is laying emphasis on the necessity for factories. Such institutions are coming in large number.

All that interests Los Angeles in a commercial and industrial way, interests this entire end of the state. Therefore, when a writer attacks the quoted statement as an indication of timidity or weakness, the impulse is to take issue with him. The statement in question is entirely proper. It is in accord with what every thoughtful man knows. The barter of real estate, the soaring values, and the quick profits, are but indications of a sound underlying principle of growth. They do not represent the end sought. In a sense, they are incidental. That there is a demand for realty, that numerous dwellings and business structures are being erected, indicates a popular faith in the permanency of prosperity. The faith is based on belief that all the elements of such prosperity are here, and that the intent is to proceed with the development of resources, and to increase the natural and manufactured products. The practical steps taken in the industrial districts do not attract the attention of observers in the same manner that it is caught by the sight of thousands of new homes and towering edifices devoted to commerce and professional life. Nevertheless, the steps are being taken. Every effort is being made to cause the industrial expansion, which is the real foundation for a solid future, to keep pace with the more manifest and dazzling type of growth. Success in this respect has been marked. The future looks bright, because while employment is essential, there is every prospect that it will be provided to meet the demand.

TWO GREAT CITIES

A San Francisco newspaper man writing a series of articles on Los Angeles evidently has the full purpose of being fair. The same is to be said of the Los Angeles newspaper man engaged in producing a parallel series of writings, with San Francisco as the subject. In this fact itself there is fine significance. It shows that a great change has come over the spirit of the two cities.

For many years the people of San Francisco declined to view Los Angeles as in any sense a rival. This attitude was not due to malice, but for the most part to a quite excusable ignorance. It was in accord with the tradition on which they had been nurtured. Their place of residence had been "The City" before Los Angeles had become fairly entitled to a place on the map. They never had been to this end of the state, and that they failed to realize its possibilities is not surprising. They wakaned to find Los Angeles with a greater population than San Francisco, and growing with a rapidity almost without example, considering the quality of the growth.

Some time has been required for elimination of acrimonious comment whenever the matter was discussed. Sufficient time seems to have elapsed. The people of both places realize that in this state there is room for two splendid cities, and that the rivalry is excellent for the cities and the community. A sense of local pride is involved, of course, and yet the question of which excels in a particular detail, is far less important than that both are expanding in healthful fashion.

FOREIGN PROPAGANDA

Ambassador Child, home from his post of duty in Italy, warns Americans against foreign propaganda. "I strongly suspect," says Mr. Child, "that if our prominent men went to certain countries in Europe and went around telling what should be done, they would be sent a list of the steamship sailings."

Apparently the ambassador had in mind the recent visit of Lloyd George. As a matter of fact the people of this country welcomed George right heartily. They were made wiser by the expression of his views, at least to the extent that they became acquainted with the nature of the views. They were not under the smallest obligation to accept them. While he was here his purpose and methods were analyzed minutely, and not always favorably. Some publications of considerable dignity held up his entire career as an example of political trickery. Regardless of what he may have said, if his presence tended to promote the understanding between two great powers, the effect was good. Nothing that he said or was capable of saying, could have influenced this nation towards any wavering from principle.

Instead of not desiring the visits of American speakers of prominence, England has shown a desire to hear them. It was in response to this feeling that arrangements had been made during the war to send a number of representative citizens abroad on speaking tours. At the head of the list was Ex-President Taft. President Wilson coldly squelched the plan.

Seemingly the propanganda to be feared is the disguised and insidious variety that seeks to instill discontent and inspire disorder. The words of a visiting statesman could do no harm, and might result in good. Some small Americans have become obsessed of the notion that Europe is "trying to put something across." They have heard so often that American diplomacy is laughed at in Europe, that they believe and resent it. The best voices of England are not asking the United States to tag along under British leadership. They advocate a policy of friendliness and mutual help; and in this they are ready to follow.

One of the charges against Governor Walton of Oklahoma is that he has abused the privilege of pardon and parole. The intimation is that he was prompted in these activities by financial rather than humane considerations. The manifest truth is that he had turned out of the jails many who belonged there. The parole system in California also has been subject to adverse criticism. There has been no suspicion of corrupt practice in relation to its workings, however.

About as wide a difference as could exist between the opinions of financiers may be discerned in the theories of Mellon and McAdoo. The first believes that the paying of a bonus would add greatly to taxation. The second holds that the bonus could be paid and taxation reduced at the same time. Well, there is a long time yet in which to argue the matter.

LIFE IS NO ACCIDENT

By JOHN CARLYLE

Folks are forever saying that life is complex. They say life is confusing, difficult. Life is not complex. It is simple. Spurgeon, great London preacher, had but one sermon. He put hell on one side and heaven on the other and gave his hearers their choice.

Did you ever stop to think that there are only two possible beliefs about life, only two possible courses to follow? It is just as simple as that. Trace the progress of life from the beginning. First, whirling gases, water, dry land. Then that greatest of all days when life crawled up out of the water onto the land. Formless, brainless, it began to adapt itself to the conditions it found on the land. By adaptation it changed in form—and so on to man.

Now, then, if you believe this strange chemical combination in the waters which covered the earth, was JUST AN ACCIDENT, you have chosen one of the two possible paths to follow. If you believe that life began, developed and moved on from stage to stage as the result of a PLAN, you have chosen the other path.

The moment you have chosen to believe in the PLAN, you have lifted up your eyes unto the hills. You have started to march. From that moment every act and every hour in your life has significance. If life is the result of a plan, if it has a purpose, you have a part in it. By every thought and every act you are helping to fill in a pattern—incomprehensible but nevertheless definite and certain.

Three workmen are hewing stone. "What are you doing?" says the passerby to the first workman.

"I am cutting stone," he says.

"What are you doing?" asks the passerby of the second.

"I am working for six dollars a day," is the reply.

"And you?" says the passerby to the third.

"Ah, I am helping to build a cathedral."

So are we all. If you believe that life is just an accident, nothing matters, nothing is important. If you choose the other belief, everything matters. Life is not complex. It is simple.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Not very long ago I talked with one of the great business men of the country. He complained of the quality of man and womanhood he is finding for office purposes.

"I have to think for them," said he. "They seem to have no initiative of their own. I am being worn out—" wearily—"by the strain of watching every detail. They are like so many automatons. They do over and over the things I have taught them to do—and they never do anything else."

Well, I have a proper bump of veneration, I trust. Heaven forbid that I should tell a man who could buy the world's best battleship for his private yacht, if he wanted to, that I thought he was mismanaging the business which brought him in so many millions. But I do think so. He has successfully crushed every particle of pep and ginger and go-get out of his force. It is only the man at a very great distance from the home office who dares act as though he were free, white and twenty-one.

"I have to watch every detail," complained the millionaire.

And because he watches every detail, and insists that every detail shall be arranged according to the formula he devised a century or so ago, his office men and women walk an age-old chalk line. If he rewarded energy and foresight and competence he would find plenty of it in his clerical force. But he has built a machine that is inflexible and stiff. No change is legal that is not made by him. A suggestion that a change be made is lese majeste, because the original arrangement was made by him. His office men and women follow the path of least resistance. After all, he pays top salaries. And when they find the pressure of ambition is no longer to be resisted, they get jobs somewhere else.

All the good ones leave him. The only employes who stay are those who are too lazy to act on their own motion.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

Those who deserve honors usually get them.
Sometime.
Not necessarily today.
The honors may be delayed.
But sometime they come.

* * *

JAMES W. FOLEY

In this world of beings, the fair measure of individuals is usually taken.
The ultimate judgment of the world is fair.
There may be instances of unfair judgment.
But in time unfair judgments are righted.

* * *

There is the ascending rocket often.
Blazing, brilliant, fiery, with its shower of sparks.
But the stick comes down.
Dull, smoky, useless.
A thing of merely ephemeral glory.
To find its final resting place in the muck and mud.

* * *

To want honors merely that you may revel in the distinction gained, is not to have the spirit that deserves them.
That is a purely selfish and little spirit.
Mean and unworthy.

To wear medals merely that you may attract attention is to evidence the soul of the boy with his bits of bead or colored glass.

* * *

Honors usually come to those who do not think of them.
Whose work is done for the love of work and of the people for whom it is done.
The man to whom honors come deservedly is usually the man who does not at all expect them.
They did not enter into his thinking when he was earning them.

* * *

For he was working for something else than honor.
He was working because he wanted to work.
To learn.
To achieve.
To benefit mankind.
To discover truth.

* * *

Those who merit distinction usually get it.
But they did not work to that end.
They worked to achieve something.
And to be worthy the name of men.

* * *

Lincoln was probably the last man who sought high place in the estimation of his fellows.
He reached high place because he did his work as it should have been done.
He deserved high place.
But he never thought to work alone to that end.

* * *

Those who gain promotion usually deserve it,
And those who deserve it usually gain it.
But they gain it by doing good work well.
Not by working merely to achieve promotion.
Honors and distinctions and promotions and medals and degrees and all of the marks of high place are incidental things.

* * *

Work is the main thing.
All else is incidental.
The medal of honor is merely a symbol.
It was the thing for which the medal was conferred that was glorious.
And it was done without thought of any medal.

Songs of the Poets

Inarticulate—By Mark Van Doren in The Measure

God, for a way of showing what men are,
These soft-fleshed maggots crazy with clean flame,
Rowelled, drunk, stumbling, stabbed by some dim star
Gods broke by torture—how shall any name,
Sound, color, marble, strike an image fit,
To stand for him, or tell the half of it.

—Mold his mad grandeur to some pretty line,
Shape half his foulness to a singing strain,
Picture his flapping, bloody flesh divine.
His courage flaring from the rack chain,
Twisted, defeated, battling, bitter, dead,
Dumb going on because he must be fed?

Man scourged to horror by eternal fear,
Man cringing under pain implacable,
Magnificence within him, year by year,
Dragging out hope endured from hell to hell
Trampled and damned, whose triumph knows no bar—
God, for a way of showing what men are.

THOUGHTS ARE SOLID

By DR. FRANK CRANE

"THOUGHTS are things," said Prentiss Mulford.

Thoughts are more than things. For the thoughts of the human mind are more enduring than the thoughts of the human hand.

Some time ago I lived in Rome, and every day I wandered some time in the Forum and over the Palatine. This region has been kept apart from the bustling modernity of the city. It is astounding, the utter desolation of this place, once the seat of the most thick, potent and vivid expression of life. Now it lies stripped, battered, broken, pulverized by the heel of time.

Some ingenious person had made a model of this little hill and valley that was once the center of the Roman government, and reconstructed it as it used to be. I gazed at it and tried to realize what a blaze of pride and achievement one time was here. There was more than one forum, it seems, and all were connected.

"All these fora, taken together," says Augustus Hare, "resembled a spacious, continuous, open-air museum, abounding in statues of bronze and marble, and in temples and porticoes, whose fluted pentelic columns during the frequent festivals used to be enwreathed and festooned with fresh laurels and roses, and congregated by noisy, dark-haired folk wearing white garments as well as by more distinguished, with richer costumes."

Now, over against that picture, let me show you one which Charles Dickens drew when he had climbed to the top of the Coliseum and looked out over the present scene: "To see it (the Coliseum) crumbling there, an inch a year; to climb into its upper walls and look down on ruin, ruin, ruin, all about it; the triumphal arches of the conquerors, the Palaces of the Caesars upon the Palatine, the temples of the old religion, fallen down and gone; is to see the ghost of old Rome, wonderful, wicked old city, haunting the very ground on which its people trod. It is the most impressive, the most stately, the most solemn, grand, majestic, mournful sight conceivable. Never in its bloodiest prime, can the sight of it, running over with lustiest life, have moved one heart as it must move all who look upon it now, a ruin, God be thanked—a ruin!"

The proud trophies of the Caesars are gone. Their exquisite creations in marble and bronze have been swept away, their tombs have been rifled. Yet the thoughts of one Horace, who strolled unnoticed here, still remain. His book still lies upon the schoolboy's desk, and his images and words remain in the minds of men two thousand years after he has gone.

Ancient Greece is no more, but the ideas of Socrates and Plato go sounding on through the human mind undimmed and strong.

The temples of ancient India are crumbled and moss-grown, yet the fairy stories that Hindu mothers, thousands of years ago, told their children are being told today by the trundle bed of English boys and girls.

All this might reasonably convince us that the thoughts we harbor mean a good deal more to our lives than the deeds we do.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

A HENRY FORD CRISIS
[Springfield Republican]

There will be some difficulties at least for the Ford boomers in adapting the candidacy of the richest man in the world, to a presidential campaign that stresses plutocratic exploitation of the masses. The political manifesto calling the December conference at Dearborn, Mich., begins by saying:

"It must be clear to the average man in this country that we have reached a crisis in the economic life of the nation. Government in the hands of a privileged class becomes an agency for exploitation instead of a security for life, liberty and property. The land of the free and the home of the brave is fast declining into a land of exploiters and exploited."

One answer is that Henry's $300,000,000 or $500,000,000—whatever it amounts to—is secure. He at least cannot complain of the privileged class; it has not hurt him in the past and it does not now menace his vast fortune.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

An attorney has been arrested for blackmail, or extortion. How many of an honored profession would be capable of this crime there is no way of knowing; very few, one would conjecture.

HENRY JAMES

Morality and ethics aside, it seems singular that any lawyer could be so stupid as to engage in a crime not only among the most contemptible, but so dangerous.

There is no sympathy whatever for the blackmailer. The general opinion is that he ought to be killed. Indeed, a one-act play that had its climax in the killing of a blackmailer, and passing his carcass off as that of a suicide, was very popular a few years ago.

People, who owing to some past episode in their lives dread exposure, may be assured that however grave the error they desire to conceal, it could not well be so great as that of permitting a blackmailer to get away with his schemes.

When an individual has no character, as sometimes is said of one devoid of reputation, it is difficult to see how the blackmailer could use that individual profitably. It would be foolish to pay for suppression of statements that could not contain anything but what was common knowledge. Yet even this sort of man or woman occasionally gets worked to the limit, the blackmailer being the most persistent of parasites.

* * *

Los Angeles is trying to open a street exactly across the site on which an expensive schoolhouse is being erected.

The board of education poses as the immovable body of the episode, and the city council undertakes the role of irresistible force.

* * *

Colorado courts seem to be very considerate. A banker over there was charged with embezzlement of large sums. They caught him, but he was no publicity hound. October 20 he pleaded guilty, was sentenced to a term of four to ten years, and had begun serving it before anybody but attaches of the mechanism for punishing sinners legally knew anything about the matter. The story leaked out when someone missed the ex-banker from his accustomed haunts outside.

Premier Baldwin is holding his own at this writing, but Asquith is on his trail, together with the spunkiest little Welshmen ever in English politics, to say nothing of Margot, poetically described as "the woman with a serpent's tongue."

Margot is the wife and most serious problem of Asquith.

* * *

Robbers killed two bank messengers in Brooklyn, getting a large sum. Two of similar ilk got $20,000 at Kansas City, by raiding a bank. In a little town in Minnesota a lone bandit walked off with $6000. At Collinsville, Ill., clerks of a coal company were held up, $14,000 being the booty. All within forty-eight hours.

These items are cited, not for their intrinsic interest, but to controvert the idea that such episodes are confined to southern California.

* * *

Every followed of Dickens remembers "Bill Sikes," not because of lovable qualities, however. And every such follower wonders why, when Bill is cited in illustration of some news story or character portrayel, the proofreader lets him get by as "Sykes."

The statement is made in a Johnson organ that Hiram's stand has created a stir in the capital.

Hiram's stand has created nothing; not even surprise. It came as a mere phase of the program devised by Hearst. The program has been opened with the approval of that singular person, a circumstance not tending to win it approval from any other quarter.

* * *

Often wonder arises why some papers supposed to give the news refrain so sedulously from being honest in giving it; they give something else labeled "news" by means of a bogus stamp.

For example, there is published a photograph of Ex-President Wilson, showing him when he was at the height of his career. His face is full, and bears the smile of assured and boundless confidence.

A caption explaining the picture says that it shows Wilson as he took part in Armistice day observance, and was taken immediately after the delivefy of his speech on that occasion.

Wilson is a broken man physically. He scarce could summon strength to speak at all. He stood as a pitiful and pathetic figure, reminiscent of the past rather than part of the present. That he made any sort of public appearance was due to the utmost effort, and he barely endured the ordeal.

Yet here he is published as vigorous, alert, smiling and happy.

* * *

Picture producers complain of the costs to which they are subjected. They are paying to each of many film actors more per week than skilled craftsmen are able to earn in a year. In two weeks a star with no capital but a pretty face and a rouge pot receives a greater sum than the occupant of the federal bench earns in a year.

But if the producers are "subjected" to such imposition, it seems worth while to ask them why they submit. Meanwhile no one will blame the stars getting while the getting is good.

When a just and proper debt is written off the books, the operation must have the assent of the creditor.

Repudiation of war debts is easy enough to talk about, but the power to which the obligation is owed, naturally must be consulted.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

YOU TOLD ME

"Tinker, what ARE you doing?"

"What am I doing? I'm doing just what you told me."

"You're doing nothing of the sort. I never told you to take all those jars out of the cellar. Never."

"Yes, you did. I was standing on the back porch just by the kitchen door and you came downstairs with the broom in your hand and a blue cap on and you told me——"

"For goodness sake stop talking and listen. I distinctly told you to go to the cellar and take the tools out of the basket and wipe them and put them in the drawer in the shop. I said nothing about taking the jars out of the cellar."

"Yes, you did. You said to take the jars on the shelf. I heard you. You were standing on the last step——"

"Stop it, I tell you. Put those jars right back and go and do as I told you in the first place. Wipe those tools that are in the basket and put them in the shop and let the jars alone. You've nothing to do with them."

"All right, all right, but just the same you told me——" but his mother had banged the door in desperation and he went moodily to the job of putting back the jars and taking out the tools.

Boys are often like that. They stand looking at you and you think they hear what you are saying. They look intelligent and that, with their listening attiture, deceives you. They are listening to many things beside your voice. Their own feelings, the plan ahead, the message of the things about them.

This lad had been so busy with the details of the scene that he had heard only parts of what his mother said. He knew he was to go to the cellar and take something out and his mind made it jars and that was all of that.

If a child has this tendency the best way to cure it is by asking, "What is it you are to do? How are you going to do it?" Check up what he has in mind by making him tell it to you. If he has heard with his ears and then with his mind he will have his story straight and it will be all the better for having been told clearly.

If he has it wrong, tell him again slowly and clearly just what you want him to do, and just how it is to be done. Then have him tell it again. Let him ask the necessary questions about it and answer them patiently, but be sure that you are not wasting time in telling him what he already knows and training him to waste breath and time.

Arguing with a child who says, "You told me," is very wasteful and harmful. He's growing a bad habit and arguing doesn't cure it. Go right to the bottom of it and build up. It isn't hopeless. It's just a common failing of one sort of boy, and girl.

SPORT -O- GRAMS

FRANCIS W. READ

Early in October the authorities in charge of the Tournament of Roses association announced that the United States Naval Academy had accepted the invitation to represent the east in the annual East vs. West football game at Pasadena on New Year's Day. Newspapers throughout Southern California applauded the choice of the Navy for the big game. In this column we joined in the applause and congratulated the Tournament of Roses association on securing Annapolis to play.

Time alters all things, and with the closing of the football season in the east approaching, the applause for the Navy in the New Year's game here is not so noticeable. Those who applauded the choice of the Navy are now regretting it. We confess that we find ourselves in this class. For the Navy has made a rather disappointing showing this season. Out of seven games they have played they have won five, tied one and lost one. This does not sound like such a bad record, but it is rather disappointing for a team like the Navy, from which such great things were expected at the first of the season. The defeat was at the hands of Penn State, the team that played the U. S. C. eleven last year and lost. It was by a score of 21 to 3 that Penn State beat the Navy. The Middies played a 3 to 3 tie with Princeton recently. All their other games have been victories. It is not the fact that the Navy has lost a game that provokes the comment.

There are in the east at the present time five undefeated teams. These are Illinois, Minnesota, Yale, Cornell and West Virginia. The first two of these, Illinois and Minnesota, cannot come wset because of conference rulings. This leaves three teams, Yale, Cornell and West Virginia, undefeated and eligible to defend the east. Of these three Cornell looks the strongest. The Yale eleven has scored 217 points against its opponents' 38, West Virginia has scored 275 points against its opponents' 27. Included in this is a tie of 13 to 13 with Penn State. Cornell has scored a total of 306 points against 26 for its opponents. Thus it can be seen that Cornell presents the strongest front of any of the eastern teams. As a basis of comparison the University of California has scored 121 points and has been touched for but seven digits by opposing elevens. This seems to bring out the fact that California has a stronger defensive than any of the eastern teams, although it does not seem to have such a scoring machine. This may be because all of the teams were pointed for California this year, or because the brand of football played by the western colleges is stronger than that played in the east. At any rate scores seem to so indicate.

It seems rather too bad that the East vs. West game cannot be a battle between the best teams of the two sections. Obviously California is entitled to represent the west. But what about the east? Is the Navy the best there? It is not. There are three undefeated teams that have shown themselves to be superior to the Middies in all departments of the game. Any one of these would prove a better match for California than would the Navy. We are of the opinion that Cornell has the edge, with Yale second and West Virginia third. Yet the Navy, with an inferior record, is to represent the west in the New Year's game.

This situation has as its cause the selection of a team to play here before the season in the east has commenced. The representative of the west was not chosen until the Golden Bears downed the Huskies Saturday. If Washington had defeated California the Seattle aggregation would have played here for the honors. Why, then, should the representative of the east be selected before the season opens? It only causes dissatisfaction, and after the game creates doubt as to what the outcome would have been had the real championship team played. Why cannot the selection of teams for both sections be delayed until it is possible to ascertain which elevens are entitled to meet in the battle for national grid supremacy?

GIRLS TO START TENNIS VERY SOON

Much interest has been developed in girls' tennis by the proposed tournament and trophy which is to be given the winner. Mary Barbara Taylor has offered a beautiful cup to be given to the tournament and the winner will have her name and yeaf engraved upon the cup.

Those who have enrolled so far are: Charlotte Hawkinson, '24; Cecilia, Cato, '25; Dorothy Van Osdall, '24; June Bodkin, '24; Mildred Brockway, '24; Frances Drake, '25; Virginia Clark, '27; Jeanette Zietlin, '27; Ruth McCabe, '27; Lois Osborne, '27; and Mary Brabara Taylor, '26. Other girls' who wish to sign up for the tournament will have to before the Thanksgiving vacation as that is the last time any names will be accepted. The tournament will start right after Thanksgiving vacation.

EARL COOPER BREAKS A RECORD

Ancient Speed King Blazes Track With Speed

Earl P. Cooper, speed king of prehistoric days, almost caused another blaze out at the reconstructed speedway yesterday afternoon when, in the first official practice for the Thanksgiving Day whirl, he fractured all existing records for 122-inch racing cars by circling the mile and a quarter bowl in 37 1-5 seconds, an average of 121 miles an hour.

Cooper's tremendous burst of speed in his tiny H.C.S. racer was the outstanding feature of the first day's practice and served to set at rest all worries regarding the speed of the track. If anything, Cooper's record demonstrates that the rebuilding of nearly half of the big basin has speeded up the track instead of slowing it down.

Three celebrated members of Cliff Durant's personally conducted racing circus were out for a workout including the illustrious Mr. Durant himself in his polished aluminum fat man's special. The big boss of the Durant team was accompanied by Jimmie Murphy, aspirant for the 1923 championship, and Harry Hartz, former boy wonder.

Hartz made the second best time of the day with an average speed of 119.6 miles an hour. Murphy's best lap was at a speed of 116.5 miles an hour while Durant was "touring" at 112 miles per hour. The proceedings were in charge of Starter Fred Wagner, Byron Morgan, author of racing stories, flew into the track in an airplane to watch things.

Practically every racing driver in town will be out for practice today according to a speedway announcement yesterday.

There must be something wrong with that old axiom about ignorance being bliss—otherwise more people would be happy.

VANDALS ARRIVE FOR TROJAN GAME

Coach R. L. Mathews and his University of Idaho varsity, which, on Saturday, will meet the University of Southern California in one last desperate stab at the Pacific Coast conference title, arrived in Pasadena yesterday and worked out at the Rose Bowl in the Arroyo Seco. The Vandals are determined to administer a beating to the twice-defeated Tropans, for should they win Saturday they would enter a four-cornered tie for the championship in case Stanford defeats California.

The Vandals can only hope for the best up at Berkeley, where the Cards take on the Bears, but they don't mean "maybe" about their local encounter. Stinging under their defeat at the hands of Stanford last Saturday, the boys from Idaho are out for blood, sand, raw meat and Trojan goal lines.

Coach Mathews stated last night several of his players are not in the best of shape, many of them having been injured in the Stanford game. He declined to tell who is on the injured list, saying that he hopes to have them all right by the time of the game. The Vandals are staying at the Hotel Maryland in Pasadena and working out at the Rose Bowl.

FRESHIES WIN FROM SOPHS

White is the Outstanding Star Of The Tournament

Previous opinion in regard to the outcome of the interclass tennis matches was overthrown by the complete change which took place last Friday morning. The matches were called at nine o'clock with Sutherland acting as a referee. The first match of the morning was between White of the Freshman class and Maxwell of the Sophomore class. The score was 6-0, 6-0 in facor of the Freshman. Lewellyn White certainly represents fine material for Glendale's tennis team. Through illness he was forced out of school several years ago, but has now resumed his studies and shows real spirit in athletics . With three more years to go his tennis chances seem unlimited.

In the first double match the Freshman team, composed of Sunderland and White, trounced the Sophomore team, composed of Maxwell and Robinson, to the tune of 6-3, 3-6, and 8-6. Speedy playing was the keynote on each side and both teams should be complimented for their work.

The second single match brought into display the skill of Nathan Finch of the Freshman team, and Townsend of the Sophs. The scrub came out from the battle with the advantage of a 6-1, 6-0 score.

The second double match also gave the Scrubs the advantage. Finch and Halstead of the ninth year team, and Townsend and Case of the tenth year team fought a royal battle with a final score of 6-0, 6-3 in favor of the Scrubs.

In the last single Halstead beat Case of the Sophs 6-4, 6-1.

The class players have certainly been stepping into the pep that should go with tennis matches, and it is now considered quite feasible that a pennant will be offered to the winners of the inter-class matches each succeeding year.

Rather than make an effort to reach the top, some men prefer remaining at the bottom for the purpose of pulling others down.

GLENDALE WILL ENTER TITLE PLAYOFF

San Bernardino Will Probably Be the First Opponent

Now that the Central league session is over and the championship rests with the Glendale high school eleven, Coach Hayhurst is preparing his Dynamiters for the post-season games. In the course of these contests, in which the championship teams of all the league will compete, the championship of the southland will be determined.

Although final arrangements are not yet completed, it is reasonably sure that Glendale will meet San Bernardino in the first post-season game. The game will probably be staged this Saturday or the week following, while the field on which it will be played is as yet undetermined. Definite announcement of all arrangements will probably be made tomorrow.

Under their new coach, Jimmy Schaefer, the San Bernardino eleven captured the honors of the Citrus Belt league and promises to put in a strong bid for the Southern California honors. Ray Duke, dimunitive Gate City half, is the star of the team that looks like a real bunch of opponents for the Dynamiters.

In the Coast league the Long Beach eleven seems to have beaten all opposition and is ready to take on all comers. Santa Maria holds the honors for the teams in the northern part of the state. San Pedro and Santa Monica will clash Friday for the title of the Bay league, while the championship of the Orange County league will be decided when Orange high meets Tustin.

As the local fields are inadequate to seat the crowd that will attend the championship games, the Los Angeles Coliseum may be utilized for some of these tilts.

Many a woman imagines that all of her troubles are due to the fact that she is misunderstood.

DE MOLAY ENTERS BASKETBALL TEAM IN LEAGUE

The Glendale chapter of Order of De Molay has organized a basket ball team and have entered into the city league. The city league here in Glendale is composed of a number of teams representing churches, stores, etc. A regular schedule has been worked out and play has already begun.

The De Molays played their first game with the Standard Oil last Wednesday and lost to a 20-17 score. It was a close, hard fought contest from start to finish.

Practice has started for the De Molay bunch in earnest and they are out to avenge their recent defeat. The high school gym is used and coach Hayhurst gives the fellows a number of pointers every practice.

All of the fellows who play on this team are graduates of G.W.H.S. and the old fight and pep stays with them. Among them are Whitfield, Griffiths, Wimmer, McIver, Wilson, Haig and Carver. Ther schedule for this season follows:

Nov. 14.—DeMolay vs. Standard Oil.
Nov. 21.—De Molay vs. American Legion.
Nov. 28.—Bye.
Dec. 5.—De Molay vs. Alumni.
Dec. 11.— De Molay vs. M. E. church.

ORIGIN OF FOOT BALL TOLD MOST INTERESTINGLY

By MARK ROC

(Editor's note—This is the first of a series of articles dealing with the origin and early history of football. Matt Roc, author of these articles, has made a detailed study of the history of athletics, and is well qualified to write on the subject. In these articles the evolution of the game will be discussed from its inception down to the time it was introduced into the American colleges. No attempt will be made to discuss the process by which the rules have been formed as they exist today, neither will be the teachnical side of the game be treated. This touches only the origin of the gridiron game. All publication rights are reserved by the Glendale Daily Press.)

It has been said by some that when the gladitorial combats of Rome were dying out, harpastum, the forerunner of football, was conceived to take their place. Julius Pollux, a Roman, wrote of an early game: "The players divide themselves into two bands. The ball is placed upon a line between them. At the ends of the field behind the lines upon which the players stand are two other lines, beyond which these two bands try to carry the ball." The Roman game was rougher than the present one—the ball was thrown among the players and a wild scramble ensued. The name of the game when translated means "to seize' and w'as so-called from the efforts of the players to seize or carry the ball from their opponents. There were no rules, no order, no referee other than the one who threw the ball to the center of the field, and anything was permissible.

Aside from the fact that the game was a derivation from a Greek sport, harpaston, little is known as to its origin. Travelers report seeing the natives of the Polynesian Isles play with a ball made of the fibres of the bamboo; others tell of seeing the esquimaux play with a ball of leather filled with moss; and the general opinion is that the game was the natural result of constructive thought in the attempt to find recreation, and that it had no originator as has basketball.

When the Romans conquered England, the "army of occupation" played at its native sports and England was quick to adopt harpaston. For centuries the game was evolved and changed until it no longer resembled its original entity and the name was changed to "football."

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MATTHEW

And when they received it they grumbled at their employer, and said, 'These men who were hired last worked only one hour, and you have put them on the same footing with us who have done the heavy work of the day and have stood the midday heat.' But he answered one of them, 'My friend, I am doing you no injustice. Did you not agree with me on twenty cents? Take what belongs to you and go. I wish to give the last man hired as much as I give you. Have I no right to do what I please with what is mine? Or do you begrudge my generosity?' So those who are last now will be first then, and those who are first will be last."

When Jesus was about to go up to Jerusalem, he took the Twelve off by themselves, and said to them as they were on the way,

"We are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be handed over to the high priests and scribes, and they will condemn him to death, and hand him over to the heathen to be mocked and flogged and crusified, and on the third day he will be raised to life."

Then the mother of Zebedee's sons came up to him with her sons, bowing low, to ask a favor of him. He said to her,

"What do you want?"

She said to him,

"Give orders that these two sons of mine sit one at your right and one at your left, when you are king!"

But Jesus answered,

"You do not know what you are asking for! Can you drink what I am going to drink?"

They answered,

"Yes, we can."

He said to them,

"Then what I drink you shall drink, but as for sitting at my right or my left, that is not mine to give, but belongs to those for whom it is destined by my Father."

When the other ten heard of this, they were very indignant at the two brothers. But Jesus called them to him and said,

"You know that the rulers of the heathen lord it over them, and their great men tyrannize over them. It is not to be so among you, but whoever wants to be great among you must be your servant, and whoever wants to hold the first place among you must be your slave, just as the Son of Man has come not to be waited on, but to wait on other people, and to give his life to ransom many others."

As they were going out of Jericho, a great crowd followed him. And two blind men sitting by the roadside, hearing that it was Jesus who was passing, called out,

"You Son of David! Take pity on us, sir!"

The crowd told them to be still, but they called all the louder,

"You Son of David! Take pity on us, sir!"

And Jesus stopped and called them, and said,

"What do you want me to do for you?"

They said to him,

"Sir, have our eyes opened!"

And Jesus took pity on them and touched their eyes, and they immediately regained their sight, and followed him.

When they were near Jerusalem and had come to Bethphage and the Mount of Olives, Jesus sent two disciples on ahead, saying to them,

"Go to the village that lies in front of you, and you will at once find an ass tied there, and a colt with her. Untie her and bring them to me. If anyone says anything to you, you are to say 'The Master needs them'; then he will send them at once."

Now this happened in fulfilment of what was said by the prophet,

"Tell the daughter of Zion,
'Here is your king coming to you,
Gentle, and riding on an ass,
And on the foal of a beast of burden.' "

So the disciples went and did as Jesus had directed them; they brought the ass and the colt, and laid their coats upon them, and Jesus seated himself upon them. And most of the crowd spread their coats in his way, and others cut branches from the trees and scattered them before him. And the crowds that went in front of him and that followed him shouted,

"God bless the Son of David!
Blessed be he who comes in the Lord's name!
God bless him from on high!"

When he came into Jerusalem, the whole city was stirred, and everyone asked,

"Who is he?"

The crowd answered,

"It is Jesus, the prophet of Nazareth in Galilee!"

And Jesus went into the Temple and drove out all who were buying or selling things in it, and he upset the money-changers' tables and the pigeon-dealers' seats, and he said to them,

"The Scripture says 'My house shall be called a house of prayer,' but you make it a robbers' cave."

And blind and lame people came up to him in the Temple, and he cured them. But when the high priests and the scribes saw the wonders that he did and saw the boys shouting in the Temple, "God bless the Son of David!" they were indignant, and said to him,

"Do you hear what they are saying?"

Jesus said to them,

"Yes. Did you never read, 'You have drawn praise from the mouths of children and infants'?"

And he left them, and went out of the city to Bethany, and spent the night there.

In the morning as he went back to the city, he grew hungry, and seeing a fig tree by the roadside, he went up to it, but found nothing on it but leaves. And he said to it,

"No more fruit shall ever grow on you!"

And the fig tree withered up at once. When the disciples saw it, they were amazed and said,

"How did the fig tree come to wither up immediately?"

Jesus answered,

"I tell you, if you have faith and have no doubt, you will not only do what I have done to the fig tree, but even if you say to this mountain, 'Get up and throw yourself into the sea,' it will be done. And everything that you pray for with faith, you will obtain."

When he had entered the Temple, and was teaching, the high priests and the elders of the people came up to him, and said,

"What authority have you for doing as you do, and who gave you this authority?"

Jesus answered,

"Let me ask you one question, and if you answer it, I will tell you what authority I have for doing as I do. Where did John's baptism come from? Was it from heaven, or from men?"

And they argued with one another,

"If we say, 'It was from heaven,' he will say to us, 'Then why did you not believe him?' But if we say, 'From men,' we have the people to fear, for they all consider John a prophet."

And they answered Jesus,

"We do not know."

He said to them,

AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL WEEK

EDUCATION WEEK MAKES GOOD CITIZENS

School Children Enter Into Spirit of This Great Work

All the schools of Glendale are observing in their classes or in other ways the various "days" of the present week as designated for Education Week. Today, for example, they will concentrate on "The American Constitution and Patriotism." Big programs for teachers and their parents have been planned by Glendale Avenue and Wilson Avenue intermediates.

Wednesday is "Parents' and Teachers' Day," when parents are specially invited to visit and study the work of the schools and to meet the teachers for their better acquaintance. It will also be "Physical Education Day" and a special program will be given on the athletic field of each school.

Thursday is "Illiteracy Day" and Friday "Community Day."

Miss Jessie Hill is chairman of programs for the high school for the observance of these days, and Mr. Rolfe of the high school and Miss Ida Waite of the elementary schools have divided the responsibility of securing speakers to address the various men's and women's organizations of the city, especially the P.-T. A.'s having meetings last week and this. Horace M. Rebok, superintendent of schools of Santa Monica, addressed the Acacia P.-T. A. last Friday; Dr. Rogers of the Southern Branch University of California, will address Cerritos today, while Richardson D. White, always ready to do his bit and more, was listed for Pacific, Colorado, Doran and Columbus P.-T. A.'s and also will address Tuesday Afternoon club members at their luncheon today, finishing up his series with a talk at the combined P.-T. A. and Men's Auxiliary meeting Thursday night at Broadway school. He says, "It's a great life if you don't weaken."

Committee chairman who are handling the different angles of the work of Education Week in the elementary schools are:

Josephine Chambers, chairman of window cards made by children of the schools.

Advertising and publicity, Miss Ella May Cornwell.

Physical education, Charles Edgar Willebrandt, supervisor of physical education.

School and Teachers' Day, Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan, principal at Broadway school.

American constitution and patriotism, Norman Whytock, principal at Glendale Avenue school.

Illiteracy, Miss Lorraine Mitchell, principal at Columbus.

Community and citizenship, Miss Lois Hatch, principal at Doran.

Speakers' bureau, Miss Ida Waite, principal at Colorado.

Newspaper publicity, articles by teachers and laymen, Miss Annie L. McIntyre, principal at Central Avenue; contributions by children, Mrs. Fannie Stone, principal at Pacific Avenue.

SAFETY FIRST

First Choice

In this day of modern high speed inventions, the requirements of Safety First methods, and propaganda is more of a necessity for the Safety of every one than any other public measure.

Everyone has seen the slogan "Safety First" but few people give any heed or slacken up their nerve racking speed by the mere looking at these mottoes.

What we want is wide-spread and intelligent action if people endangering the lives of their fellow men will not heed the simple and common sense code, based on the "Golden Rule." They must be made to do it by a series of strict regulations.

Statistics regarding accidents and mortality from careless handling of the power and privilege, placed in the hands of autoists, is truly alarming. It would be serious enough if they themselves were the victims, but in a large number of cases helpless elderly people or school children suffer at the hand of the "Safety Last" maniac and untold distress is caused and is chargable to the greedy account of selfishness and heedlessness of this voracious killer.

Not all violators of the principle of "S. First"-are the drivers of automobiles or the propellers of modern powered machines, although they are the first to be held accountable in the case of an accident. Sometimes the victim is at fault and previous education along proper lines might have been of much benefit.

Jay-Walking is supposed to be bad form but it is not against the law although it should be prohibited, and people should be taught to use designated crossings. Frequently one sees a person stop in the path of an oncoming automobile and in a frightened manner dodge backwards much to the confusion of the driver. This stupid habit could be eliminated by educating pedestrians to either stop or persue their course in order to be sure that the driver could avoid them.

Grade crossings contribute a large number of fatalities each year, due to the fact that people in general disregard the "S. First" to pause long enough to ascertain that everything is clear ahead.

Preventing of accidents then, I believe can be obtained (1) by a definite code of laws. (2) by intelligent education of the public. The one, as a stimuleus to auto drivers and people who have in their hands the propelling of powerful vehicles, to use caution and obey "S. First" principles, and the other as a measure of prevention by keeping innocent victims out of harms way by educational propoganda.

There are many safety laws which we should learn in order to protect ourselves from death or injury. Thousands of lives are lost daily by people who fail to use these laws.

Many people unthinkingly cross busy streets without first looking in all directions. Others handle matches and cigarette stubs carelessly. Still others leave medicine, knives, and other dangerous instruments in places where they can easily be gotten by children. In these ways they expose themselves and others to injuries and possible death.

A list of safety laws were gotten out by the national government. Some of the more important thoughts were those that I have already expressed. Every precaution should be taken to prevent fires. Matches should be handled carefully, all combustible material such as gasoline, and oily rags should be placed in containers that will not burn.

Therefore seeing that almost all accidents are due to carelessness we should have "Stop, look and listen," as our motto.

SAFETY FIRST

I am just casting a few hints to prevent accidents. Los Angeles has poor ways of regulating traffic in the downtown section. Some night it takes over one hour come to Glendale from Sixth and Main streets.

I know several ways of improving this condition. For example in Chicago you can go right straight from the busiest downtown section to any other part of the city with few stops, if any, because the policeman on one corner connects with another on the next street. They allow just enough time to drive through the block. Here they allow time enough to get to the corner but when one arrives there triffic is just opening up the other way. It seems here that the policeman on one corner isn't on speaking terms with any other one. They also have the center electric signals the sign to go or stop. These electric signals go day and night unlike the ones in Los Angeles which stop at six o'clock. They also have the telephone. If a man is not going according to rules the policeman takes down his license number and telephones it to the next corner and the policeman there arrests him. In that way he hasn't had to leave his post and there has been no jam up because the cars have been left without traffic supervision. They also have the school patrol boys. They go out just before school closes at noon and recess and night and go to the busiest corners. If an auto doesn't stop or obey his orders the patrol boy takes his license number and reports him at the police station. Altogether it saves many accidents.

So we can learn from Chicago, as well as many other cities of the U. S. whose traffic regulations are better than in Los Angeles. It does not help the growth of a city to have the death toll high.

SAFETY FIRST
Eleanro Leitch
Glendale Ave. School A-7

There are many safety habits which every person should learn. The cause of most accidents is the carelessness of the people who do not try to learn the safety rules.

When crossing a street, we should always go to a crossing. Before crossing the street "stop, look and listen" to protect the lives of both oneself and the drivers of the cars in the streets. We should never jump off nor on any moving vehicles.

There are many other safety rules besides the traffic rules. Keep all sharp needles, pins, nails or scissors away from small children. It is not at all safe to let small children handle matches. Many careless mothers leave children and let them light a fire. It is none too safe to let them light a fire even if there is some one there to match them. There are too many dangers of explosions.

For these many reasons every person should learn and follow the "safety first alphabet" (Always Be Careful Don't Ever Forget) and the many other safety rules.

SAFETY FIRST
Frederic Dundas
Glendale Ave. School B-7

Safety First is a slogan which we hear on every hand, but by the number of accidents which occur every day, we are led to believe that it is not heeded. Several years ago this slogan was adopted by the railroads and the police traffic departments of our cities and thousands of dollars are spent every year to advertise it and impress the measning of it upon the public.

One example of the public's carelessness happened in our own city of Glendale. A traffic officer at the intersection of Brand and Broadway, in one day, counted four hundred vehicles whose drivers failed to give the signal in turning the corner. This is but one example of the carelessness and indifference of the public. I think it is but our duty to obey the laws and to help others obey them.

THRIFT
Gilbert Groatage
Wilson Ave. School, B-8

Thrift is one of the quickest ways to wealth. If all the children were taught to save, they would be able when older to get a good start in life.

Many people save their money by putting it in the bank. People who do this receive interest, and the bank may lend to those in need.

People who purchase bonds from the government aid the governmen, and are well paid. During the World War many bonds were bought. Those who purchased them were well paid. They also aided the government in getting supplies for the soldiers.

Many people in California have invested in oil stock. This is very good if you are sure you can trust the company. Before investing it is best to go and see what you are buying. If you do not know whether or not it is a good purchase it is wise to ask someone who does know.

Thrift is not only saving and investing, but spending wisely. It means avoiding extravagance and buying of unnecessary goods. There are many people now adays that are very poor who need not have been if they had saved, invested, and spent wisely. A number of these people are dependent on the community.

In many schools there are thrift machines. This helps the children to know the value of their pennies, so that when older they will not depend on the government for support.

THRIFT
Helen McCormick
Wilson Ave. A-7

Thrift means saving. Most people think thrift means saving money only. Thrift does not mean saving money only; it means saving of clothes, school supplies, food, money, etc.

We can save clothes by not wearing good clothes for work or play that would soil or spoil or tear the clothes by rough use. Use your better clothes for things that would not require hard wear. Take care of what you have.

We can save in school supplies by being careful of the paper, pencils and school books we are given. They can be saved by not making foolish mistakes such as writing over a word and then thinking that the word spoils the looks of the whole paper; you tear it up, throw it away, and ask for another piece of paper, thus learning the habit of carelessness and waste. Save your pencil and don't break them unnecessarily to get to walk across the school room to sharpen them. Be very careful of your books. Take pride in nice looking books. Don't mark or tear the pages of a book. Then the school will not have to buy more. Therefore you will be learning to be thrifty.

Save in food. You can save by not having too many dishes at one meal and then not have a great deal left over.

We can all be thrifty with money. Boys and girls should not spend their pennies and nickels and dimes for some things that would never be worth while to anyone. A short time ago at the schools, several hundred dollars were collected by saving old newspapers and selling them. Thrift is the road to prosperity. Success is built upon thrift. Putting money into the bank and letting it draw interest instead of spending the money for worthless things is thrift.

Herbert Hoover is a man that has always tried tomake the nation be thrifty. Thrift suggests careful management. Thrifty does not mean miserly. Thrifty does not mean penurious or niggardly. it means to be economical and saving.

SAFETY FIRST
Norman Rich
Glendale Ave. School, B-8

One of the most necessary habits a person can have is, "Safety First." If you should watch the pedestrians each day you would see how careless and regardless they are of themselves and the people around them. When you come to a crossing you should not depend on the autoist to stop, but look both ways before crossing.

For instance, bus drivers, motormen, and engineers have a great responsibility. If they should in any way be careless they would menace the lives of all the people that they carry. Boys or girls that ride bicycles should be careful and not think that they do not have to obey certain traffic rules. A boy or girl riding a bicycle should always let an auto or street car have the right of way. Most all bicycle accidents are due to carelessness.

When you glance over a newspaper in the evening one of the first things that meets your eye is, "So many killed" or "Hurt in an accident," or "Fire," all caused by some careless person. When you read and hear of these things you always want to be as careful as you can. It is always better to be safe than sorry.

SAFETY FIRST

When the corners are terribly crowded
And the people in front all stop
You may be sure that on the corner
There is a traffic cop.
But when they rush on heedless
Across a busy street,
Your comon sense will tell you
That he is off his beat.
Oh drivers, do be careful.
The graveyards are full today
Of all those foolish people
Who took their Right of Way.

EVERYBODY SOLD ON WELFARE CHEST

munity can be below par, sick, suffering or out of harmony with environment and the other part of the community not feel it. This sense of community responsibility is one of the things that makes us feel that this democratic method of ours is the right thing after all. No symptom is more encouraging or uplifting than the fact that we are beginning to understand that all the elements in a community can work together on a common basis for that community's good and improvement."

Mr. Henderson reviewed the history of Cleveland's community chest organized 20 years ago on the suggestion of a generous hearted, broad-minded Jew, prominent in the chamber of commerce and in business circles. He stated that during the war it covered all demands through the chest and raised $11,000,000 and, as he explained: "Paid every dollar to every war charity that had any claim upon us. We got to feeling if it was a good thing then, it would be a good thing after the war was over, for we had learned to work together.

"A community chest isn't simply a pot into which you put all the money and then dip it out. It enables a community to make a survey and find out what are the needs of its infancy, its childhood, its youth, its aged, and its unfortunates. Second, it looks into the agencies covering those needs to see if they overlap or if all are met. Third, it goes out and finances those agencies so that we can look each other and the world in the face and say we have done our duty to our community.

"I believe in the community chest because co-operation is the only way by which a community can study all its needs. I believe in the community chest because it gets the money. It raises the tone of your community because it puts every instittuion on a sound, self-respecting basis."

Mr. Henderson closed by referring to the fact that in Cleveland 109,000 school children contributed sums ranging from 1c to 15c to the chest. While the cost of collection may have left small margin of profit, he considered it invaluable because it was educating a generation of givers in that city.

At the close of the session, pledges, tags and other matter was given by George Karr and his associates to majors and captains to be distributed by them to their workers, and announcement was made that all majors, captains, etc., would be expected to meet for luncheon and report at the Egyptian Village cafe on Wednesday with the Exchange club, Thursday with the Rotary club, and Friday with the Kiwanis club.

L. A. FARM BUREAU INTERESTED IN FORESTRY

At a meeting of the joint committee at the Hall of Records in Los Angeles, Nov. 13, Harvey S. Bissell was made temporary acting chairman, in the absence of H. J. Evans. Mr. Bissell, besides being president of the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau, has been actively interested with that organization—which has working committees on, water conservation, fire protection, flood control and reforstation for the past 6 years. Realizing that the city people are, or should be as interested in the conservation of our water as the rural population, these features like ours equally dependent on our water supply. About 2 years ago the Farm Bureau committee cooperated with George P. Clements of Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, invited in representatives of a number of Chambers of Commerce and various civic and prilanthropic organizations, interested in forestry and water shed preservation and formed a permanent joint committee. At a meeting of the joint committee Nov. 13 at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Bissell was made temporary acting chairman, to hold office during period of organization. J. D. Maxfield, manager of the safety department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, secretary. While chairman committees have been named as follows:

Dr. George P. Clemens, manager of the agricultural department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, committee on water conservation; H. J. Evans flood control; George H. Barnes, president American Reforestation Association, committee on reforstration; Ed Thomas, committee on education. L. B. Jorlman, chairman Los Angeles Realty Board Agricultural committee, committee on finance. The organizations activities will cover the district geographically known as Los Angeles basin somprising the water sheds of Los Angeles, Santa Anna and San Gabriel rivers and extending throughout Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties. In addition a committee at large will cover the whole of Southern California.

NEW EXECUTIVE FOR BOY SCOUTS

Scout council, said that after investigation he found that of 25,000 boys of Scout age brought before the juvenile courts of Chicago only four had been Boy Scouts and that of the 3000 boys brought before the San Francisco juvenile court not one had been a Boy Scout. Other speakers emphasized the fact that the Boy Scout movement is on exactly the same footing as the American Red Cross in that while it is sponsored by the congress of the United States, it depends entirely upon local communities for its financial support and is largely operated through volunteer Scoutmaster leadership; that this national movement for boys has grown in fourteen years to a membership of over a half million boys and leaders; that Scouting is a movement rather than an organization in that the Scout program is only used as supplementing existing organization in the community, such as the church and the school; that while the Boy Scouts wear uniforms they are in no sense a military organization, but rather an organization fostering a definite outdoor camping program of doing things that every boy loves for the purpose of keeping himself "physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight"; that the Boy Scout program while non-sectarian, can be used as a supplement to any church or Sunday school program, including as much religious influence and teaching as the church or organization to which the troop is connected wishes to put into it.

MERCHANTS' ASS'N. PLANS COURSE IN SALESMANSHIP

At the Glendale Merchants association weekly luncheon and business meeting, held yesterday noon in the Egyptian Village safe, appreciation to the American Legion for its part in securing the Armistice Day closing was expressed by F. C. Butler, manager of the Lewis Jewelry company. Every Legionnaire in business in Glendale had his place closed, and the Legion was greatly responsible for the cooperation of the other merchants in closing.

Plans are now being made for a course of lectures on salesmanship, to be given in the near future at the regular meetings.

Following the luncheon, the regular business meeting took place, occupying the remainder of the time.

MONTROSE NOTES

Friends and acquaintances of Mr. A. A. Sanderson are deeply grieved to learn of his sudden death which occurred Monday morning at the Sanderson home in Los Angeles. He had been suffering for some time with heart trouble caused from extremely high blood pressure. The Sandersons had moved just recently to Los Angeles, having sold their home in Montrose to Dr. Rook. Mr. Sanderson was the father of Clyde Sanderson who is proprietor of the battery station on Honolulu avenue. He is survived by the widow and son. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Workmen have today begun to excavate on the lot next to the Blue Bird cafe on Honolulu avenue. Mr Theodore Belanger is planning to have a very good looking one story building erected there as an extension of the corner building which he owns. When finished the new place will house a haberdasher's store which will handle everything necessary to the complete wardrobe of the "sterner sex." The new store will be twenty-five by sixty feet and will be finished in brown stucco. It is expected that the work will be completed within sixty days. Mrs. Belanger will himself supervise the construction.

Mrs. C. E. Culberson of La Crescenta will entertain the ladies of Montrose and La Crescenta at a silver tea to be given Friday afternoon at her home on Michigan boulevard and Rosemont avenue. Mrs. Culberson is a delightful hostess and her parties are always looked forward to with pleasure. The affair Friday is being given for the benefit of the Woman's club building fund.

Mrs. C. G. Weever and Mrs. Reed of Briggs Terrace will be hostesses at a clever musical to be given Friday evening in the new community church in La Crescenta. Both ladies are greatly talented and offer an exceptionally enjoyable program for the evening. The affair is being given for the benefit of the church. It is open to all.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Howard and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Mead returned Monday afternoon from an automobile trip to San Diego. The party left early Sunday morning for the southern city, enjoying the beauty of the drive along the coast.

Mrs. M. M. Howard enjoyed an outing at Long Beach Sunday. She was accompanied by her son's children and the two Hooper children. The day was pleasantly spent enjoying the beach city attractions.

A MILLION CAME THIS YEAR—SPENDING MILLIONS

Three hundred thousand of them were motorists!

The pulling power that brings them to the Southland every year in increasing numbers is more than mere sunshine, beaches and highways "as smooth as the inside of your bathtub." The traveling motorist is made to feel probably more quickly in Southern California than in any other region in the world—that he is at home and among friends willing and eager to befriend him!

And what more confusing to a newcomer than having to choose from forty different kinds of gasoline, some poor, some good!

Simply tell him: there's ONE that experienced motorists always count on—that's "Red Crown," the dependable gasoline from the Southern California Refinery of the Standard Oil Company at El Segundo.

It gives quick-starting, sharp, fast pick-up with no sacrifice of power. There's uniform, perfectly balanced gasoline wherever you see the "Red Crown" sign.

NEW SHADE AND LINOLEUM STORE AT 211 S. CENTRAL

Realizing the need of a first-class shade and linoleum store in Glendale, George V. Gilbert and Thomas Pratt, who for some time have been connected with the Pendroy dry goods store, opened last Wednesday at 212 South Central avenue, the Keystone Shade and Linoleum store. This establishment is carrying everything in the way of shades, linoleum and floor coverings and is selling them at prices that are proving a pleasant surprise to those who have already patronized this store.

These boys are experts in their line, having spent several years in the shade and floor covering business.

"A special feature that we wish to emphasize," said Mr. Gilbert this morning, "is that every yard of linoleum laid by us is thoroughly cemented to the floor. Not only the edges but the entire floor surface will be covered with Armstrong's linoleum cement, thus avoiding cracking, stretching or breaking of the floor covering.

"Another thing. We have a complete line of the latest patterns, carrying out the best and most appropriate colors for every room in the house. In addition to linoleums and window shades we will feature a number of choice patterns in linoleum rugs in various sizes and colors.

"Our work is all guaranteed. If it does not suit we make it right."

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

What is considered to be a remarkable record for La Crescenta was made by Collins & Tillinghast last Sunday when they sold an entire tract of 10 acres in less than four (4) hours. The sale started at seven in the morning and the last lot was sold at 10:57 a. m. This tract is located ten blocks north of the new terminus of the Glendale & Montrose car line on New York Avenue. The acreage is beautifully situated and consists of 32 lots most of them half acre lots lots. Collins & Tillinghart have just purchased 50 acres with a frontage on Michigan Avenue, west of New York Avenue, which they will divide into about 400 lots and start the sale of these lots in about thirty days. The latest addition to this firm of Collins & Tillinghart is Fredrick W. Plaisted former govenor of Maine, which was also the home of Mr. Collins. Mr. and Mrs. Plaisted are planning to make La Crescenta their permanent home.

C. Jennings Young, asistant fire warden of this district reports the loss, by theft, of the siren horn, belonging to the local fire truck. Mr. Young, states the horn was removed from the fire station, some time between last Wednesday and Sunday. The siren cost $40.00. La Crescenta has always been so free from anything in this line—it will make the residents in the valley feel they will need begin to lock their doors. Mr. Young is of the impression the theft was made by local boys.

Mrs. C. E. Culberson of East Michigan avenue will be hostess to the members of the La Crescenta womans club and their friends at tea next Friday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. This is the first of a series of teas being planned by members of the La Crescenta womans club for the benefit of the building fund of the club.

Roy McDonald of Tonapah, Nevada is the guest of his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Collins of East Prospect Avenue. Mr. McDonald states he is so charmed with the La Crescenta valley, he will return with his family and make this his home.

COMPENSATION

There is a balm somewhere, my dear,
For every hurt and pain;
There is a spirit somewhere near
To rise and strive again.
There is a treasure you may find
By no lost joy surpassed,
And how the pathways wind and wind
They bring you home at last.

There is a smile somewhere, my dear,
For every tear that falls;
There is a song that's sweet and clear
Where now the sorrow calls;
There is a right for every wrong
How bitter it be now,
And we shall know them all ere long,
Someway, somewhere, somehow.

And if the tear of failure falls,
And dreams not yet come true,
Somehow we'll build the shattered walls
And make the temple new.
A light shines in the dark, my dear,
A song sounds on the air,
And we shall read the message clear
Someway, somehow, somewhere.

SOCIETY GIRL MARRIES WINNER OF FIST FIGHT

A cultured girl cringing in fear.

A convict and a sailor engaged in a fight to the death.

And the society girl must marry the winner.

This is one of the powerful situations which predominate in "The Isle of Lost Ships," showing again today at the Gateway theatre and boasts of a cast that includes Milton Sills, Anna Q. Nilsson, Frank Campeau and Walter Long.

The fight for the possession of the terrorized girl took place in the center of the Sargasso Sea, that mysterious tract in the center of the Atlantic ocean which tradition declares has been the "graveyard" for vessels of all kinds for centuries.

A shipwreck was responsible for the presence of the girl and the convict, both clinging madly to life. They reach the community of survivors and the girl learns that she is subject to a law that she must choose a husband within 24 hours.

The outcome of the battle and the manner in which the trio escaped from what appeared to be life imprisonment in the sea of weeds is vividly portrayed in "The Isle of Lost Ships."

DOES TONY GIVE TOM MIX THE HORSE LAUGH?

Tom Mix, playing a comedy part in the William Fox production, "Soft Boiled," appears at the Glendale again today. It is the first time that audiences have seen Mix in a straight comedy role.

Billie Dove plays the leading feminine role, with Jack Curtis, C. H. Mailes, Joseph Gerard, Wilson Hummell and others taking prominent parts in the best picture in which Mix ever appeared. Incidentally, another highly important member of the cast is Tony, Tom's lovable horse, which is known from coast to coast and even abroad.

Things go along rapidly until Mix comes on as a shoe clerk wearing horn rimmed goggles, bell bottomed trousers and spats. Then the speed limit is broken and in one shot, if Tony didn't actually lift his head and laugh, it was an optical illusion which fooled the whole audience. Nor could Tony be blamed.

The picture isn't all comedy, for Mix is restored to his role as cowpuncher eventually and with characteristic determination he takes affairs into his own hands.

CAN MODERN GIRL KEEP HONOR CODE IN THIS JAZZ AGE?

Can a modern girl, reared in a sordid environment and compelled to work for a living remain faithful to her ideals in this jazz age? That is the question which is so vitally answered in the wonderfully human picture, "East Side, West Side," which opens tomorrow at the T. D. & L. theatre. The authors prove that a girl can maintain a high code of honor despite her environments if she has character, regardless of the fact that she may be beautiful and possess personality.

Our heroine possesses health and personality in abundance. And she works and keeps faith with her ideals. Her code is that a girl can get along admirably and win respect and friendship if she plays the game on the level.

Eileen Percy as this girl, Lory James, is shown in a role strikingly different from anything she has heretofore attempted. Kenneth Harlan, regarded by many as one of the handsomest actors on the screen, and playing opposite Miss Percy, gives an effective presentation of the young man who clings to clean ideals and fight to preserve them. There is the usual good vaudeville, too.
